

GDPR Disclaimer

You will likely be aware of changes which came in to effect on 25th May 2018, the EU's General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR), as a supplier to you of services which are affected by this, there is some important information you should be aware of.

It is mandatory for all companies storing or processing the Personal Data of European Union 'Data Subjects' to comply with these new rules. Part of our responsibility is to ensure that you, as our client, have all the information you need to ensure you understand the regulations and how they may impact our services.

Key changes you should be aware of are as follows:

- We have made all the necessary amendments to be in Compliance with the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) which came into force 25th May 2018.
- If you would like to "opt-out" of having their Personal Data used for certain purposes, such as marketing please send us an email on gdpr@monarchassurance.com
- We will only share your personal data with sub-processors in countries that have adequate data protection policies and which are GDPR Compliant.
- We will provide that any affiliates or third parties (sub-processors) it engages on behalf of Customers will have to comply with the adequate data protection policy i.e. GDPR Compliant.
- We will notify you in advance regarding any changes to its third parties and affiliates (sub-processors).
- If there is any data breach, we will notify you after becoming aware of the breach of security and provide the necessary support and assistance to you.
- Upon expiration of the Policy or early termination of the Policy, we shall, on request, promptly provide to you all personal data held by us, except for that information which we are obliged to retain as part of our adherence to other local or EU legislations.
- You accept that you must comply with applicable privacy laws concerning the processing of personal data in connection with the services provided therewith.

Please be rest assured that these changes do not affect commercial or product aspects of the services provided to you. We are simply updating the Policy documents to protect you, and the privacy of your data.